Love Languages

Some people think that speaking more than one language is unusual, but for many people around the world, it's completely normal. In South Africa, there are eleven official languages. In Europe, Switzerland has four official languages: French, German, Italian, and Romansh, and most people also speak English.

The top ten languages in the U.S. (after English)

1 Spanish	6 French
2 Chinese	7 Korean
3 Tagalog	8 Russian
4 Vietnamese	9 German
5 Arabic	10 Haitian Creole

And here in New York City, there are 800 languages! Nearly half of all elementary school children speak English at school and a different language with their family.

Let's meet three people who speak more than one language.

Hi, my name's Colin, and I'm a waiter in a busy restaurant. My wife is from Italy, so I speak English and Italian. It's really useful when Italian tourists come to the restaurant.

I'm Erica, and I'm a student. I love languages! I speak English and French and a little Chinese. I think it's important to know about other cultures and speaking another language is part of that.

Hello, I'm Lara. I work for a modern company. Lots of our customers are in South America, so I speak Spanish and Portuguese. I met my husband in Argentina. We're in the U.S. now, but we want to live in Buenos Aires in the future.
